

Subject: Import and Export

Details: import is a good brought into a jurisdiction, especially across a national border, from an external jurisdiction. Importing in the good is called an importer.[1][2] An import in the receiving country is an initial quota (INR) of the receiving country. Importation and exportation are the defining financial transactions of international trade. In international trade, the importation and exportation of goods are limited by import quotas and export quotas from the customs authority. The importing and exporting jurisdictions may impose a tariff (tax) on the goods. In addition, the importation and exportation of goods are subject to trade agreements between the importing and exporting jurisdictions.
